Forecast for Monday 25 Apr 2022

Weather: A chilly but dry start to the day, with north and east-facing ground in cloud. Staying dry through the morning with lengthy periods of sunshine for most of the area, but possibly cloudier on some hills, mainly in the east. Remaining largely dry through the afternoon with long sunny spells and patchy cloud, and just a small chance of a shower. Staying generally dry into the evening.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 600m: 60% becoming 95% by the end of the morning.

Low cloud and visibility: Periods of cloud forming above 700m during the early hours. This continuing until around mid-morning, but tending to lift and become smaller patches. Any remaining cloud lifting above all summits by late morning. Generally very good visibilities although a slight haze surrounding distant hills. Locally very poor visibility in the morning cloud.

Meteorologist's View

Despite feeling quite cold over the highest summits at first, due to a moderate easterly breeze, strong periods of bright sunshine will give moderate to high UV levels. Sun protection is highly recommended with UV levels higher at altitude than in the valleys.

Forecast for Tuesday 26 Apr 2022

Weather: After a cold and possibly frosty start in some valleys, another dry day is expected with mostly sunny conditions to begin the day. Some cloud is likely to develop possibly leading to rather cloudy periods during the afternoon, but sunny intervals remain likely. Staying dry during the evening.

Maximum wind: North-easterly winds 15-20 mph.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops 600m: 80%.

Low cloud and visibility: Patches of cloud possible above 800m during the morning, but most summits cloud free with excellent views. Any cloud lifting above all summits during the morning. Generally excellent visibilities but locally poor in cloud.

Temperature: Valleys: Zero Celsius rising to plus 15 Celsius.
At 600m: Around plus 4 Celsius, but plus 8 Celsius during the afternoon.
Freezing level: Just above the summits.

Thursday	Another similar day to on Wednesday with dry conditions expected and a mixture of sunny spells and patchy cloud at times. Light easterly winds with freezing levels just above the summits.
Friday	Probably remaining dry, but perhaps somewhat cloudier than previous days. Some spells of sunshine remain likely with winds staying light from variable directions. Freezing levels just above the summits.
